YOUR GUIDE TO DOING BUSINESS ON THE COAST

FIVE MINUTES

with Susie McLachlan

SKYDIVING entrepreneur, editor and publisher of the Australian Skydiver Magazine, owner operator and instructor of Skydive Ramblers Coolum Beach and event organiser of Skysisters United, female skydiving records and convention.

To me, business is...a way to be creative.

My first job was...making fruit juices.

My biggest failure was...not buying more real estate 10 years ago.

My biggest success was...my gorgeous little daughter Charlee.

The greatest risk I ever took was...hard question for a skydiver! This sport it is all about managing risk and so I have built that attitude to all aspects of life, love, business etc. I can't actually pinpoint one great risk!

The best advice I ever got was...from my father, "believe nothing of what you hear and half of what you see" ie. things aren't always what they seem.

When times are good, I...go skydiving with my mates.

When times are bad, I...do one jump and it makes everything OK.

I am reading...the latest Ben Elton book.

I really wish...for blue skies, fluffy clouds and five knots from the south-east.

I could not live without...my crazy dreams (or my sunnies).

The thing not many people know about me is...I'm actually quite shy!
